SUICIDE AFTER THE WAKE

Pretty Nora Curry Was Only Nineteen and Wayward.

She Swallowed Laudanum and Cried, "Send for Aunt Ellen."

Nora Curry, a prepossessing girl of nine-teen, while visiting friends at dod East Sixteenth street, drank 10 cents' worth or laudanum shortly after inidnight this morning. She was removed to Bellevue Hospital, where she had dark bair and eves and was quite pretty. Her parents died six years ago and the went to live with her grandmother.

Ellen Kerrigan, in Thirty-second street near First avenue. She became careless and wayward and an uncle took her away, and since named Mrs. Moriarity, on the top floor of the

Her grandmother died several !months ago, leaving her $700, which was to be kept in the bank until she should become of age. Nora was a stripper in Ottenberg's cigar er place on Saturday. She and a young girl named Bridget Sullivan went to a wake at a house on East Sixteenth street on Sunday night. They stayed all night and attended the wake Monday and Tuesday nights also.

On Wednesday Dora and the Sullivan girl paid a visit to Thomas Murphy and his wife, a young couple living at 606 East Sixteenth street. Nora didn't want to go back to her aunt's nouse, and the Murphys gave her permission to stay with them for a couple of last night they played cards until quite late. Nora went out to get a pint of beer, she stayed away nearly an hour. When she came back she said to the Sullivan girl: "Bridget, send for Aunt Ellen , I've done

"Bridget, send for Aunt Ellen. I've done it."

She then went into an adjoining bedroom, and immediately after Murphy heard a buttle fall on the floor. He ran in and found the girl lying across the bed.

She had taken a large dose of laudanum from a soda-water bottle.

Much time was lost sending the girl to the hospital. She was admitted at 1.05, and aithough the physicians did gil in their power to save her, their efforts were of no avail.

She purchased the laudanum at D. J. Quirk's drug store. 224 Avenue B.

Mrs Mortarity, the dead girl's aunt, said today that Nora was a wild girl. She had not been home for nearly a week.

It is said that Nora made several demands for the money left her by her grandmother. She wanted to buy nice clothers, but her relatives would not let her have the money, and on this account she was often despondent.
